

David is the Perfect Gentleman

Margaret Bruce
David's mom and proud of it.

David is the perfect gentleman

Kind and polite,
small and awkward.

Shy and timid silent and happy.

Longs for a friend.

Smart as a whip.

Naive and cautious.

Sleepless for his dreams are loud.

Finds pictures in a perfect cloud.

Lives every day in silent hell.

Yet I complain.

Cares for the world
and wants to make it perfect.

Never a thought for himself.

Hugs and kisses me
with all his might.

Yet I am eager to hear

"I love you."

Loud sounds make him edgy.

Reading brings him peace.

Children pick on his tenderness.

He is teased for his lack of knowing.

He will hold the door open for anyone.

He will share the moon though he believes
it follows only him.

He loves babies and shows them care.

He pulls and tugs on his hair.

Will say "thank you"

and "please"

"God Bless you"

when you sneeze.

For David is a perfect gentleman.
